

In light of its continuous efforts to stimulate tourism and travel, and to upgrade its airline network, EGYPTAIR announced that it will operate its newest routes to Manchester, England, starting next July, and Delhi, India, starting next August.

The opening of the new routes is a part of the company's ambitious plan to expand its direct route network , it also comes to connect Egypt with many countries around the world through Cairo's hub airport as EGYPTAIR has recently added Dhaka route in Bangladesh and New Jersey in North America to its network.

The new routes represent additional expansion points to EGYPTAIR's network in Asia and Europe and serve new customers of the company around the world.

It is planned that the company will operate 5 weekly flights to Manchester, England, starting from July 15, on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays with its B737-800NG , The outbound flight is at 10:00 am , Cairo time , Flight No. MS781, arrives at 1:30 pm , Manchester time.

As for the Delhi-India route, the company is scheduled to operate 4 weekly flights, starting from the beginning of next August with the company's latest A320neo , the outbound flight is at 11:40 Cairo time on Flight No. MS973 on Fridays and Sundays, arriving at 20:45 Delhi time. Another flight departs at 23:50 ,Cairo time, Flight No. MS975 on Thursdays and Saturdays, arriving at 8:55 the next day, Delhi time.

EGYPTAIR customers can book their tickets on the two new routes through the EGYPTAIR website, Egyptair.com , EGYPTAIR offices around the world or travel agents.