

Fawry and DMS Launch Direct Integration Between DMS Systems and Fawry POS Terminals to Enhance Payment Operations Efficiency

- The collaboration directly connects business management systems with POS to process transactions and automatically update payment data, supporting operational efficiency and reducing manual intervention

Cairo, Egypt – 13 September 2026: Fawry, Egypt's leading fintech company, announced its partnership with DMS, a company specializing in software solutions and digital transformation for the healthcare, financial, and industrial sectors, to directly integrate Fawry Business POS solutions with DMS's medical system. The integration connects payment processes to operational systems, while transaction data is updated automatically and instantly.

This integration enables medical institutions and companies that rely on DMS solutions to manage payment operations more efficiently. Transaction amounts are automatically sent from cashier screens to Fawry Business POS, and the transaction status is updated in the system in real time once payment is completed, providing employees and customers with a faster, smoother payment experience.

The direct integration also enables transaction data to be transferred automatically between the system and the POS, reducing manual intervention and data re-entry errors, accelerating payment and settlement processes, and ensuring data accuracy and real-time updates.

Commenting on the partnership, Bassem Lotfy, Head of Business Development at Fawry, said: "At Fawry, we are committed to going beyond the traditional concept of payments and integrating our solutions directly into the daily workflows of institutions. Our collaboration with DMS represents a practical step toward connecting payments with business management systems, contributing to the automation of processes, reducing manual intervention, and improving the accuracy and speed of transactions across the healthcare sector and various business environments, in support of comprehensive digital transformation efforts."

Roaa Mamdouh, Strategic Alliances Director at DMS commented: "The integration of business management systems with payment solutions represents an important step toward building more connected and efficient operational processes. Through our collaboration with Fawry Business, we enable our customers to connect payment processes directly with their operational management systems, allowing transaction data and status to move automatically between the system and the POS without the need for manual intervention. Through this partnership, we aim to provide practical solutions that respond to the needs of businesses and hospitals, while supporting their ability to manage daily operations with greater accuracy and efficiency."

Through this partnership, Fawry Business combines its expertise in digital payments and business-focused POS solutions with DMS's expertise in developing business management systems and cashier operations management solutions. The integration between the two companies contributes to creating a connected and more integrated workflow that starts with transaction registration and ends with the automatic updating of payment data within the system.

This partnership comes as part of Fawry's ongoing efforts to expand its range of digital solutions for the business sector and to develop strategic partnerships that enable payments to be integrated into the systems and platforms companies rely on to manage their daily operations. This helps companies and establishments simplify their day-to-day processes and make greater use of technology to support operational efficiency and business growth.
